

Faculty Award for Excellence in Graduate Teaching and Mentoring

Steven Lalley

Professor, Departments of Statistics and Mathematics
The University of Chicago

We are pleased to congratulate Prof. Steven Lalley for receiving a Faculty Award for Excellence in Graduate Teaching and Mentoring this year. The award is given annually each Spring to full-time faculty in the divisions who exemplify the highest teaching standards and are nominated for distinction by their students and home department. Congratulations and thanks to Steve for his wonderful service to our students and department.
